MISSISSIPPI REDUCES FOREST LAND BURNED

Washington, D. C.—(Special)— Mississippi was one of 36 states in the Nation to reduce the acreage burned on protected land in 1948 under its average for the period 1944 to 1948 inclusive. Mississippi's total acreage burned last year was 139,420 or a reduction of 28,248 acres from the average of 167,688 for the five year period ending in

This was revealed in a recent survey released by the American profit organization supported by the Forest Products Industries, a nonleading lumber, pulp and paper, and plywood industries in the U.S.

The survey based on latest U. S. Forest Service figures for the Nation, is an eight-page leaflet showing comparative effectiveness of forest protection in all timbered states.

Aubert Dunn, prominent attorney of Meridian and a former district attorney, did not mince words in his address before the Tennesse-Mississippi peace officers convention at Gulfport Tuesday afternoon. Prohibition, he charged, is "an infectious problem that is slowly but surely disintegrating and degrading the political and social health of the state." He added, "Mississippi must have a liquor referendum, and quickly, to establish once again the high principles of democratic trust and confidence."

We suggested state control through a system of liquor stores similar to Alabama and many other states, where laws of operation, manner, quantity of sales, identification of purchaser, purity and sanitation of premises and sales to minors would be regulated.

He charged that country clubs, throughout the state, sell care of the building and equipment. liquor, that conventions, clubs, and fraternities serve it openly Mrs. McDonald told the students and at leisure, with high office holders, from the governor that the respect for and protection down, present when the law is violated.

Continuing he said, "the pitiful part about this whole thing is the way in which the small wage earner and the politically poor are the victims of this hypocritical orgy now blighting the state."

He told the law enforcement officers of Mississippi they had an opportunity to re-establish honor and integrity in the law enforcement department of the state, but that he recognized their helplessnss in trying to enforce a situation when society decreed that it should not be enforced.

Mr. Dunn has expressed our sentiment about the prohibition law in the state of Mississippi and particularly did he strike a key note when he said that the enactment of the Black Market tax on liquor sales by the Legislature resounded throughout the nation as a hypocritical gesture.

The prohibition statue and the Black Market tax should be repealed and a definite control of the sales of liquor should he effected. The method, of course, would be a matter for the Legislature.

We suggested editorially several years ago the repeal of the prohibition and Black Market tax laws, and urged adoption of a law providing for the appointment of a liquor control commission of three members, which would allow individuals to operate liquor stores or barrooms. The law should be so written, that the mere infraction of a rule would mean the rescinding of the license of the operator, and the license should be of such proportions that the small dive operator would be forced to discontinue business. The law should further provide and make it mandatory upon the liquor control commission to remove from office any officers who fail in the enforcement of the

The majority of the people of Hancock County favor the repeal of the prohibition laws. We have open bars, and many feel this is far better than having the "Blind Tiger," and yet we have a system which is rotten to the core—unscrupulous officers demanding the pay-off is far worse than the violation of the prohibition law.

The bar operators should be courageous enough to tell such officials where to go when demands are made upon them and the legislature of the State of Mississippi should have the courage to face this situation squarely and honestly, and adopt a law which may reestablish honor and integrity in its law enforcement department.

Mr. Jones, who will represent the Southern region for the Extension committee on organization and policy, left September 7 and will serve with Extension Directors F. A. Anderson, of Colorado, L. C. Williams, Kansas; and George E. Lord, Maine. The office of Experiment Stations over the nation gets its funls from eight different acts or authorigations, and the Extension Service from nine different authorigations.

The House committee reported that 'it is believed that one act could be drawn, consolidating all these without substantially changing the allocation to any state and yet with much benefit to the work of the department of Agriculture."

The special committee will meet in the Extension office in Washington, prior to theover-all extension organization and policy committee, and will present its recommendations to the policy group which in turn will present suggestions to the secretary of agriculture.

FALL ARMY WORMS

Watch out for the possible appearance of fall army worms, also known as Southern grassworms.

These pests strip the leaves from oats, late corn, pasture plants and lawn grasses. Farmers who plant their oats early in the fall should watch closely for these worms.

! The fall army worm or grassworm appears as a striped pale green to black caterpillar. There is usually a prominent upsids-down "Y" on the head.

Several dusts will control the pests.Use 10 or 15 pounds to the acre of 5 percent DDT, or 20 percent toxaphene, or the 3-5 cotton dusting mixture. This 3-5 mixture is 3 percent gamma benzene hexachloride and 5 percent DDT.

A caution is that regardless of the material used, the crop should not, be grazed for at least two weeks after dusting. The 5 percent DDT dust is probably the safest to use on grazing crops.

TREE SEEDLINGS Plan now where forest tree seedlings can be planted on the farm, then order the number needed foresters advise.

As in the past- seedlings for planting during the winter will be available from nurseries. State tree nurseries produce seedlings for farmers/in accordance with a provision

Each farm land owner is entitled to a maximum of 5,000 free seedlings with the only charge being 35 cents per 1,000 for transportation. Seedlings will be packed in 1,000 or 2,000 per bundle. Orders will not be received for less than 1,000. Have a definite idea where the seedlings will be put when they are received, farmers are urged. Because of the lack of planning, there have been instances where seedlings were planted in improper tures, simply because these areas were open and convenient.

Loblolly pine seedlings will be the majority of those distributed, although there will be other pines and a few black locust. A definite number of seedlings for free distribution has been allocated to each county.

Application forms for free seedlings and seedlings to be purchased are in the hands of the county agent, area forest ranger and other agricultural workers.

POULTRY HOUSE PLANS Impoved poultry house plans have been completed by the Extension Service and are being distributed through county agents.

Look back over the past several weeks to see the need for the best ventilation possible in buildings which house poultry. The houses must be cool during the hot summer month if producers expect hens to lay and broilers to grow.

The new 30-foot Mississippi type house provides the maximum in summer ventilation. Windows and drop doors on both sides provide cross ventilation. The gable roof with a "roof top" ventilator takes out the warm air usually trapped in the old shed roof houses. Double doors in the ends permit driving a wagon through the house when it is cleaned, as well as aiding ventilation. Other labor saving considerations are deep litter, dropping pits, automatic waterers and semicommunity type nests.

Besides the 30 by 30 foot house, plans for houses 30 by 60 or 30 by 130 feet for commercial egg or broiler production are available.

Applewhite - Arceneaux Wedding Ceremony Held At Brookhaven Catholic Church

Miss Kay Applewhite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldredge Penn Applewhite of Brookhaven, and Mr. Donald James Arceneaux, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Arceneaux, Sr., of this city, were married Thursday evenof Assisi Catholic church, Brokhaven. Rev. Father Thomas Williams, assisted by Father Labbe of Abbeville La. performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of white organdy over white taffeta. It was fashioned with a fitted bodice with triple tucks at the shoulder and a high neckline, long sleeves full at the shoulder and fitted, finished with calla points at the wrist. The long skirt, with horizontal tucks of graduated size, formed a graceful train. In the back, teh bodice extended below the waist line and ended in an oval shaped effect. She wore a large gold cross, a family heirloom.

Her finger-tip veil of illusion was held in place with a broad band of illusion adn clusters of lilies of the valley at each side. He bouquet was of which bride roses, lilies of the valley and stephanetis.

A Decade of Development to 1949

Phone 9101

TEN YEARS AGO a new era began in Mississippi! On September 5, 1939 the state's first commercial oil well was completed in the Tinsley field in Yazoo county. This first well was the forerunner of a great new industry which in one decade has become an important factor in the rapidly expanding economy of Mississippi.

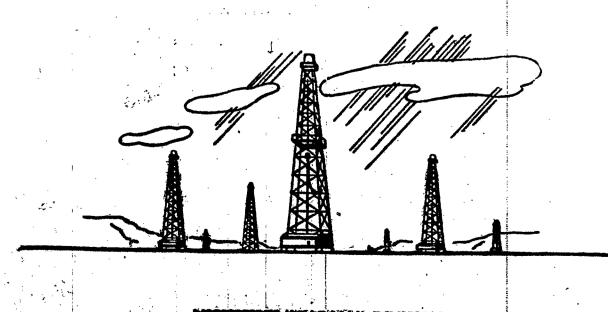

FOLLOWING the discovery of the Tinsley field and the Vaughn-Pickens pool soon thereafter, there were no other important discoveries until 1943 when several new fields, including Brookhaven, Eucutta and Cranfield, were found. Since then each year has seen the addition of more producing areas until today Mississippi is recognized as one of the most promising oil and gas states in the nation. Tireless work and risk capital by many men and companies, with faith in Mississippi, have made this possible.

SINCE OIL was discovered in 1939 there have been 2,370 wells drilled in search of oil and gas and today Mississippi can count over 1,500 producing wells in 33 different fields. Approximately 100,000 barrels of oil are produced daily and Mississippi now ranks 9th among the states in oil production. Proven oil reserves as of January 1, 1949 were in excess of 500,000,000 barrels and proven gas reserves amounted to 2,504,000,000,000 cubic feet.

THE ENACTMENT of a comprehensive conservation law has given assurance to the people of Mississippi and to the industry that the state's oil and gas resources will be developed to the fullest extent without waste in production. This, coupled with a tax structure that enables the state to collect a fair share on production and at the same time not restrict development, augurs well for the

THE FINE SPIRIT of cooperation manifested by the people of Mississippi during the past decade is sincerely appreciated by the oil and gas industry. In turn it pledges continued efforts toward building a more prosperous economy through orderly development of our mineral resources.

THIS IS IMPORTANT to you as a citizen for what helps the sound development of our oil and gas resources helps Mississipi and all Mississippians.

EUROPEAN ARMS AID

Following up the signing of the Atlantic Pact President Truman some weeks ago called upon the Congress to implement that Pact by furnishing the European nations who sign-.86 ed it $1,450,000,000 in military aid and equipment. Last week the House, in a tempestuous mood, anxious to go home for a recess, and concerned about the ever increasing demands by the administration for the appropriation of additional billions of dollars for Europe, cut $580,000,000 off the administration's $1,450,000 program. The amendment, offered by South Carolina's Congressman Richards, himself a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, was supported chiefly by Republicans and Southern Democrats, with a scattering of Northern Democrats. The administration's workhorse, 2 Speaker Sam Rayburn, took the floor in one of his rare speeches. and attempted to stem the tide to 15 no avail.

Many of us who supported the amendment reasoned among other things that since the administration's program was a two-year one, it would be a good idea to see what was done in the first year's program; what, if anything, the peoples of Europe had done in the meantime to help themselves. Then too, at the end of a year Congress could have another look to determine what the whole international picture is a year hence. If the European nations use these funds and materials with efficiency; if they work out a sound 9 program of self-help, then Congress will probably be in a mood to help them further. Again, it may not be advisable at the end of the year to spend any further monies in that direction.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee is now conducting hearings on the program. The administration is putting on the heat in that body to get the full amount originally asked

Margaret Ann Dantagnan-Weds Forest L. Hayden In Double Ring Ceremony

Miss Margaret Ann Dantagnan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Gabrial Dantagnan of this city, and Mr. Forest Lee Hayden, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hayden of Pass Christian, were married at Qur Lady of the Gulf Catholic church Sunday, September 4 at noon. The Rev. John Bryan officiated at the double ring ceremony. On the altar were white gladiolas and white lighted candles.

Preceding the entrance of the bridal party Ray Harchetich of De-Lisle sang "Panis Angelicus," accompanied by Mrs. Guilbault. Mrs. Guilbault played the Liturgal Marches for the processional and recessional.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a wedding dress of candle light slipper satin. The tight fitting bodice was made with short sleeves and a calla lily neck. The bodice reached slightly below the waist line in a front and back point and from the waist the full skirt fell in a graceful train. White silk mittens ended in points over the hands.

Her finger tip veil was of Pointe de Bretagne heirloom lace and was held to her head by clusters of Fleur de Amour blooms. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of white roses and Fleur de Amour.

Her maid of honor and bridesmaid were her sisters, Miss Edith Mae Dantagnan and Miss Julie Dantagnan, who wore Nile green taffgta dresses fashioned as the bride's with long sleves. They wore mittens of the same material as the dresses. In their hair they wore an arrangement of green lase and yellow roses, and they carried old fashioned bouquets of yellow roscs.

Mr. Hayden had as his best man J. P. McMahon of New Orleans and the ushers were J. J. Hayden, Jr., of Covington, La., Charles Dunbar, Jr., New Orleans, Rory Rafferty and Eaton Lang, Pass Christian.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, 115 Washington street, where Mrs. Dantagnan and Mrs. Hayden were receiving with the bridal party. The former wore beige crepe and the latter wore pale blue crepe. Both wore corsages of white gardenias.

White gladiolas were evident throughout the reception rooms and the bride's table was covered with a hand made cut work cloth upon which rested the four-tierred wedding cake. Sprays of gladiola with fern surrounded the cake and silver candelabra holding white lighted tapers completed the table.

Serving at the punch bowl were Mrs. Joseph Tenet of Waveland and Mrs. J. J. Hayden, Jr. Miss Jeanne Tenet was in charge of the guest

For traveling the bride wore a toast light weight wool suit with a matching close fitting hat which was trimmed with a brown silk cord. Her corsage was of white roses, and her accessories were brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayden will make their home in Norman, Okla. Mr. Hayden will enter the University of Oklahoma and complete his education in petroleum engineering. The bride is a graduate of Perkinston Junior college where she was one of the five honor graduates in the class of '49. She was a member of the Phi Theta Kappa sorority and was national historian. She attended LSU in the summer, working on her degree in languages. Many prenuptial affairs were given for Miss Dantagnan, a miscellaneous; she visited friends. shower was given by Mrs. Donald DeMetz who entertained at her Pass Christian home. Twenty-five guests were in attendance. A miscellaneous shower was also given by Mrs. Joseph Tenet at her Waveland home. Forty-five guests attended this party. Another miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Miss Drew Courtney at Pass Christian. Miss Courtney and Mrs. Mc-Connel entertained jointly.

Rory Rafferty entertained the bridal party and a group of their young friends at a swimming and cocktail party at his home at the Pass. The rehearsal buffet supper was given by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hayden at their Pass Christian home.

Among the out of town guests here for the wedding were the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Daile, and their daughter, Miss Yvette Daile all of New York City. There were a large number coming from New Orleans and the Coast.

TO LEAVE FOR STATE Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Evans will leave Sunday with their sons, J. A. Evans, Jr., and Fred and Jimmy McDonald for Mississippi State College. The boys will enter college there and Dr. and Mrs. Evans will go to Columbus to visit Dr. Evans' brother-in?law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. S. L. Hellingsworth. They will be away through Wednesday of next

CAME AND EIST COMMISSION WORKS TO PROTECT WEDLIE

Arrests for violation of hunting and fishing regulations constitute one of the major activities of the State Game and Fish Commission. These arrests average approximately 200 each calendar month according to records, and the apprehension of that many individuals, plus securing of sufficient evidence to convict each one, requires considerable time on the part of the law enforcement division of the commission. Of necessity, this activity receives more attention than any other phase of the state's wildlife management organization. However there are many other activities carried on under the administration of the Commission. These programs of work constitute long-range planning designed to protect the source of supply of the state's wildlife, particularly the game species.

Outstanding in these other pro grams is the management of 43 different refuges comprising well over 200,000 acres of land located in every section of the state. These refuges reach from just below the Tennessee line to Harrison county on the Gulf Coast.

Without these refuges, the Commission would find it difficult to obtain game species for stocking suitable areas. Perhaps the most successful of the game refuge and restocking programs undertaken by the Commission is that of restoring or bringing the deer population of the state to the point where successful hunts can be staged in many sections of the Back in 1939 the Commission established the Leaf River Refuge located in Perry and George former wild state — a condition time when hunting areas will be counties. The refuge in succeeding years has provided, annually, a crop of surplus deer which was trapped off and released on other refuges or hunting areas in the state. In 1934 deer were released on the Holly Springs National Forest lands in Marshall, Lafayette and Benton counties in the extreme northern section of the state. All hunting was restricted for a number of years, the first open season on deer being held in 1946. The kill that year in a short six day season was about forty bucks. The kill has increased each year until in the 1948 season a total of 194 legal bucks was killed on this area. Estimates made of the deer herd now in existence in the forested lands in the three counties indicate a population of approximately 4000.

Economically the value of the deer herd on the Holly Springs section is estimated at a round $200,000.

The law enforcement division of the Commission plays an important part in the development of game crops. For it is obvious that the Commission would be very foolish to release deer or any other species on suitable areas unless sufficient protection was provided against unscrupulous hunters who would take advantage of such game plantings and harvest what they could before any real value was received.

functional monthly pain? Many a girl and woman has found the answer in CAR-DUI'S 2-way help. You see, CARDUI may make things lots easier for you in either of two ways: (1) started 3 days before "your time" and taken as directed on the label, it should help relieve functional periodic pain; (2) taken throughout the month like a tonic, it should improve your appetite, aid digestion, and thus help build in the label of build up resistance for the trying days to come. CARDUI is scientifically prepared and scientifically tested. If you suffer "at those certain times", get CARDUI today.
